NEWS BY THE MAILS.

Washington News and Gossip.

NATIONAL DEBT.

The Secretary of the Treasury has received one thousand dollars in two ten-forty bonds, with seventy-six coupons attached to each, to aid in the payment of our national financial obligation. The donation was willed to the United States for that purpose.

DISCONTINUED.

The ordnance department in Richmond has been discontinued. Hereafter all requisitions and ordnance property to be turned into the Government will be sent direct to the arsenal at Fortress Monroe.

THE PARDON SEEKERS.

Applications for pardons at the Attorney General's office come in very slow. The President is granting very few. On the 29th, twenty-nine pardons were granted to Alabamians, and on the 30th, four were granted to Mississippians.

TAXES ON MANUFACTURES AND PRODUCTIONS.

By the terms of the 83d section of the revenue law, the tax on manufactures and products are to be paid within ten days from the 20th day of each month, or on or before a day to be prescribed by the Commissioner, and for failure to pay within the prescribed time the tax payer is liable to a penalty of ten per centum on the amount of the tax. The Commissioner has decided that this penalty must be collected in all cases when a tax payer has become liable thereto, as the collector has no discretion in the matter; but, in order to avoid all occasion for dissatisfaction, collectors are advised to issue notes to persons assessed, immediately upon the receipt of the list, informing them of their liability under the law, and form 17 has been prepared for this purpose. It must be distinctly understood, however, that as this notice is not required by the terms of the law, but is entirely gratuitous on the part of the revenue officers, no person can claim an exemption from the penalty by virtue of the non-receipt of the notice. If the duties are not paid within the prescribed time, the collector will issue a demand (form 2), in the manner prescribed by section 28, and proceed to collect the amount, with the penalty and costs, by distraint.

IMPORTANT TREASURY DECISION.

The Secretary of the Treasury some days ago received an application from a Western National Bank, asking that the deposits of Government disbursing officers be exempt from taxation. The matter having been referred to General Spinner, he gave an opinion to-day that the desposits of the disbursing officers of the United States with National banks designated as depositories are subject to tax like other deposits that are subject to taxation. The ground upon which he bases this is, that the banks have the benefit of such deposits, the same as individual deposits, and therefore ought to be taxed in the same manner.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

The Secretary of War and Lieutenant General Grant are daily in receipt of letters from volunteers, asking that they be discharged from the service immediately, alleging that there remains no necessity for their further detention

RESTORATION OF LOST TITLES TO SOUTHERN ESTATES.

One of the greatest embarrassments resulting to property owners in the South by the late war is the loss of a vast amount of papers relating to the titles of land, and which in the occupation of their country seats by the Federal forces very generally suffered destruction by fire or other cause. To obviate the difficulty now prevailing in many localities, in the transfer of lands with a reasonable show of title, the General Land Office has ordered its agents throughout the Southern States to carefully collect all vestiges and remnants of the records of their office and forward them to the commissioner at Washington, that new plats and other archives pertaining to the funds may be supplied as far as possible. New maps are also being got up with all possible dispatch. It is well known that at the time of the invasion of the South many adventurers attached to the army secured many valuable papers and records relative to certain large estates, in the hope of owners offering heavy rewards for their restoration after the close of the war. It is the hope of the Commissioner of Public Lands to be able to furnish so much of the missing data as to prevent parties to the theft gaining by the documents they now withhold in expectation of a bribe.

SEMMES.

Semmes, the commander of the Alabama, has not yet been removed to the Old Capitol, but is confined at the Navy Yard in a room adjoining the chapel. The room is in the second story of the building, and is very comfortably furnished, with bed, sofa and table, and it is also carpeted. The marines at the yard are charged with his custody. A sentry is constantly on duty at the door of the room, while outside the building, under the windows of the room, another sentry is stationed. No one is allowed to speak to or hold intercourse with him except one gentleman, who holds a pass from the Navy Department, understood to be his counsel. He spends most of his time in reading, having brought with him some of his favorit books.—His meals are brought from a restaurant near by, and paid for by the government. Under the circumstances he is quite cheerful, but seems to be anxious that the trial shall take place speedily.

The London Times.

It is stated that this leading journal of the world circulates about sixty thousand copies daily, a number largely exceeded, we believe, by at least one American daily. It was established January 1st, 1785, by John Walter; in 1803, his son, John Walter, Jr., succeeded to the management, and 1837 he in turn was followed by his son, John Walter, the third, the present publisher. The Times has secured its immense influence by literary merit, accuracy and enterprise, and now confines itself to business, following, instead of leading, public sentiment. It yields its proprietors a net profit of about $225,000 a year. Its present editor is John Delane, who has associated with him Mowbray Morris, the business manager. Both of these gentleman are interested in the proprietorship of the paper. Mr Delane who is really the chief of the concern, goes much into society, where he is generally received. It is said of him, in the fashionable world, that these drawing-room influences have their effect upon him, and that the Times deals more leniently now with the sins and follies of upper-tendom than in former days, when the editor could lose nothing by an honest independence. Mr. Delane was always in the habit, during the life of Lord Palmerston, when matters of importance were before the Cabinet, of visiting him every night when he was in town, for the purpose of obtaining from him confidential information as to the probable course of the Government. This enabled the Times to give to public sentiment, apparently, the lead, while, in fact, it was but following a course already laid down. It has been, in truth, of late years, the Government organ. Besides a host of reporters, there are numerous departments, with a sub-editor at the head of each.

IMPORTANT SALE.

ON WEDNESDAY, THE 24TH OF JANUARY, 1866, I shall offer for sale, my plantation in Bertie County, lying on the Roanoke River, three miles from Hill's Ferry on said river, and six from the village of Woodville in Bertie County, containing 1000 acres, more or less; 500 acres cleared and well adapted to the growth of cotton, corn, wheat, &c.

There is a very fine opportunity to make a large cotton crop on the plantation the next year, as there is compost enough ready made to manure nearly 100 acres. The plantation made in 1861, 43,000 pounds of lint cotton, and 4,000 bushels of corn; and, with proper management, will do great deal better for the next year, as the most of the cotton land has had rest for the past two years. A very great advantage which this farm has, is its convenience to transportation, being only one mile to a good landing on the river, where there is a regular line of steamers to Norfolk weekly. In addition to the above, this is the only river farm in this portion of the county that has fire wood enough, conveniently for use; there is an abundance here, and timber of almost every kind, cypress, oak, hickory, ashe gum, &c. Lumber dealers would do well to examine the land before the day of sale.

There are about 300 or 500 acres on this tract uncleared, which affords a fine range for hogs, and a free access to number less acres of uncultivated lands renders it very profitable for the raising of cattle, colts, &c.

The improvements consist of a gin house and cotton screw, overseer's house, cabins enough for 25 or 30 laborers, corn house &c. At the same time and place, I shall sell 200 or 300 barrels of corn, fodder, mules, horses, hogs, farming utensils, &c.

Terms for the land, one third cash, the balance in two equal instalments, payable respectively in 12 and 18 months, and title withheld until payments made. For the perishable property, cash.

For any further particulars, address the subscriber at Enfield Halifax county, N. C.

Coe's Super-Phosphate of Lime,

OR

BONE MANURE.

WARRANTED GENUINE.

BEING MADE OF THE BEST MATERIAL AND in the most approved manner, it is recommended to the public as superior to any other in the market. All who have used it speak of it in the highest terms of praise, and those engaged in its manufacture will continue their best endeavors to advance the high reputation which it has acquired.

We guarantee the Phosphate to be well manufaced, and recommend it in preference to any other artificial manure in the market. We consider it nearly equal to the best Peruvian Guano, although furnished at half the price.

Messrs. B. H. Allen & Co., the well known manufacturers of agricultural implements, say of it:

"We take pleasure in stating that we have sold E. F. Coe's Super-Phosphate of Lime for four years—It has given universal satisfaction to our customers. We most cheerfully endorse it as an article worthy of the confidence of the public, and the purchaser may rely upon securing an article honestly and carefully manufactured.

"We would state that, after careful examination, we believe this Phosphate has been improved each year since its introduction in this market, and that it will continue to maintain its present high standing. "Very respectfully,

"R. H. ALLEN & CO.,

The Seats of Justice.

Purity, capacity and fidelity are not only necessary in the administration of all governments, but it is essential to a wise, beneficent and successful government, that these should exist in every department of its administration. Attacks upon the purity of all governments are the rule and not the exception, wherever adverse parties exist, by those opposed to the administration. If corruption does not exist, where the administration is committed to so many hands, as in Republics and constitutional monarchies, as well as in despotisms, it would be a wonder, seeing that human nature is so perverse and depraved.

It is matter, however, of congratulation and pride, to the American people, that, notwithstanding the frequency with which charges of corruption have been made against the Congress and the State Legislatures, we do not recollect ever to have heard of similar charges against the Judiciary of the United States or of the States, in the past history of the government. Generally, men of undoubted integrity have filled those positions, and it is a proud record of the nation that her seats of justice have been kept pure.

Equally felicitous has been the history of the Judiciary in North Carolina. Our higher Courts of Justice have not only been ably filled and the opinions of the Benches highly endorsed abroad, but our people have come to look to the Courts, under the guardianship of a pure Judiciary, as the source of justice and right.—What our Judiciary has been in the past, we may confidently look to it to be in the future.

We are disposed to look with favor upon the proposition recently made in the Legislature to increase the number of the Supreme Court Judges. The rapid accumulation of business before the Supreme Court, before the war, was rendering the two sessions of the Court exhausting and burdensome. This will naturally create a necessity for an increase of the number. In a few years it will be found that five will be pressed as hard as three are now. Besides the increase, need not lessen by any means the influence and high judicial character of the Court. It ought to add to its strength and ability.

But our main design was to add to what we said the other day, some remarks in regard to the necessity of a more careful selection of the magistracy of the State. The common idea, that the office of a Justice of the Peace is a common and unimportant one, is a vicious one, and has created a prejudice against the character of the office. The Justices of the Peace, though limited in their jurisdiction, constitute a very important branch of our judicial system. They hold the important power of initiating criminal processes. And although their failure to proceed correctly, may be revised by the Judges, yet a very important point is gained in the administration of justice, when the initiatory processes are judiciously and wisely directed. Moreover, they are directly and specifically the conservers of the public peace. The quiet, concord and protection of neighborhoods and communities are committed to their hands. With them is the dispensation of justice in the daily affairs of the people.

How important, therefore, that the magistracy of the State should be placed in the keeping of our most pure, most capable and most reliable citizens! They may not be necessarily learned in the law, but every magistrate should have full capacity for the discharge of his duty, enjoying the public confidence as a man of courage, purity and fidelity.

The Legislature therefore, has a high duty to perform to the State and to the several counties, in the selection of the magistrates. In the name of the people and for the honor of the State, we demand of them a wise and sound discretion in the selection.

A Move in the Right Direction.

We have always held the doctrine that "honesty and capacity," without regard to party affinities, were the essential qualifications for office. We should deprecate, at this day, any serious departure from that rule of fitness; and yet we confess to a feeling of gratification at the apparently authentic announcement, that the support of the policy of the Administration is to be made, in future, a test in all cases of Federal appointment.

It has been for some time manifest that all the heterogeneous clans of radicalism were mustering for the overthrow of the wise and beneficent policy of the President. The demonstration of hostility has even proceeded to the extent of threatening him with impeachment, and of obtaining an imperious control over all the departments of government.

It is a well known fact, in the political history and experience of the country, that the power and patronage possessed by the Executive, when employed by him to that end, have been sufficient to break the bones of any party opposing him. We are convinced that the time has arrived, when it will be right and becoming in the President to employ all of that power and patronage to crush and utterly destroy the infamous faction which, in warring upon him, is warring, at the same time, upon justice and the peace and welfare of the Union. Popular sentiment, throughout the country, would fully sustain him in such a course. The sympathies of the people would be aroused and excited at the grand spectacle of a man thus arming himself against his hundred-headed foes, and contending, single-handed and alone, with a powerful, vindictive and unscrupulous organization.

Let us, then, have, as soon as practicable,—and the sooner the better,—another crack from the Executive rod upon the skull of the hydra, in the manner indicated. It will collapse, under such an infliction, like a conceited and stalwart bully in the presence of that moral courage which shows him his master.

A Voice for the South.

Amid the incessant clamor for measures that shall hurt and crush the South, it is gratifying to hear from the North any occasional cheering voice urging the generous policy of helping us. Such an appeal is to be found in a late Philadelphia Ledger:

"So far as the South is concerned, it is morally certain that she must have pecuniary help, if it is expected that she will go on and produce her crops of cotton, tobacco, sugar, rice and other staple products. A supply of funds to work with in the production of these is fully as imperative as a supply of reliable labor, and there is little question but what, when once the funds are within reach, the labor, in some shape, will be close at hand. The war wiped out every bank and financial institution in the South—swallowed them up as completely as an earthquake—and National banks must, for a while, at least, take their places, if we are to count on farther and regular supplies of the valuable products of that section. It is but a truth to assert that, as the North aids in building up the agricultural prosperity of the South, so does she aid in building up her own. The Southern people are anxious to "speed the plow" and gin the cotton, but they cannot do this without help, nor must that help be long delayed."

If the films of radical prejudice and sectional antipathy that now obscure the vision of the press and politicians of the North, and, we fear, of too many of its people, could be removed, it would be manifest that the interests of the two sections go hand in hand, to say nothing of the higher considerations that should cement their restored brotherhood.

What the South needs is capital. An accession of white labor is of course desirable, though we have growing confidence that we can employ the present system of colored labor to advantage. Intrinsically, the South is neither weak nor dependent, though ravaged and desolated by the scourge of war. During four years of tremendous strife, her generous bosom principally fed the armies of both sections, that wasted as much as they consumed; while in the flinty bowels of her mountains was found a vast supply of iron, copper, coal, lead and saltpetre to furnish the material of war on the grandest scale. Take our own State, for example: We do not exaggerate when we say that, for eighteen months prior to the close of the war, the coal mines and iron foundries of Deep River alone supplied the late Confederate government with most of its munitions of war and was the main-stay of its whole Railroad system.

The immense agricultural districts of the South, stripped of their labor, might and will be come, in the course of years, the dispensers of a great public charity, by furnishing homes and occupations to millions. And this charity, like that "quality of mercy," of which the great poet speaks, will be "twice blessed":

"It blesseth him that gives and him that receives."

How blind, then, and fatuitous the folly of sacrificing the great material power and interests of the country to a fanatical and insatiate bigotry and prejudice! But it was simply our intention to put on record a pleasing evidence, from an unexpected quarter, of an improved and friendly spirit. We shall always chronicle such with gratification and be ready to extend a prompt assurance of appreciation.

Gov. Worth's Address.

With a solitary exception, so far as we have been able to perceive, the press of the State have bestowed the highest commendation upon the recent Address of Gov. Worth to the people of the State. It has also elicited the highest commendations from outside sources. This endorsement is highly gratifying and augurs well for the best interests of the State.

CHARLOTTE.—The contest for municipal officers in this place waxes warm. There are already three full tickets in the field, with the promise, according to the Times, of six more. Out of such an abundance of material, our neighbors ought to be able to select that which is good,—a matter of great importance, and one which we trust our own citizens will bear in mind in their approaching election.

State Revenue Tax.

A correspondent at Chapel Hill calls our attention to the following paragraph from a telegram from Wilmington, dated December 24th:

"The sheriffs have been instructed, by order of the President, not to enforce the collection of the tax levied by the Constitutional Convention. This action was procured by merchants interested in the matter."

We presume our correspondent had not seen the telegraphic correspondence which we published, a few days ago, between Gov. Worth and the President. No such order has been issued by the President. In one case in Wilmington, we understand, an injunction was issued by the military authorities, to prevent the collection of the tax, but it is understood that no further interference will be made.

If the tax imposed by the State Convention be a violation of the Federal Constitution or be wrong in itself, the redress of parties is with the Courts.

The Provisional Sheriffs are authorized and directed by the ordinance of the Convention to collect the tax. The tax should be collected, and parties concerned, who doubt the propriety or right of the Convention to impose the tax, must seek redress either in the State or Federal Courts.

On Dit.

We have heard it repeatedly rumored, since Gov. Holden was relieved, that there were good grounds for believing that President Johnson designed giving him some substantial proof of his appreciation of his services, by tendering him a position of importance. Recently it has been said, that he would be tendered an appointment as Minister to Peru or some other South American Republic. We simply mention the rumor, without knowing whether there is sufficient foundation for it, or not, in order to express the opinion that such a manifestation of the President's appreciation would no doubt be gratifying to Gov. Holden's friends. Gov. Holden would discharge the duties of any position to which the President would call him, with ability and fidelity to the government. His energy, practical sense and grasp of intellect, would be turned to good advantage for the country in the diplomatic corps.

Ex-Gov. Z. B. Vance.

This distinguished gentleman has had his parole extended, so we are informed, and the tether by which he is tied now includes the entire extent of North Carolina. We sincerely hope that this may be the preliminary to a full restoration of all his rights, civil and political, under the broad seal of the State Department.

We feel perfectly certain of the fact that President Johnson could do few actions more gratifying to the people of his native State than the extension of Executive clemency to the distinguished citizen, of whom we speak.

It is a well-known fact that Ex-Governor Vance opposed the attempted disruption of the Union, and that until the formal action of his State was taken, he was an eloquent advocate of the preservation of the Republic in all its integrity.

When North Carolina did secede, he then threw his fortunes with hers, and served with credit in the field until called to the position which he occupied at the time of the surrender.

The personal worth of the gentleman of whom we write, his courage, honesty and integrity, give us full assurance that he will discharge his duties as a citizen in a manner calculated to promote the good of the country.

The exhibitions of a temperate and wise spirit which Mr. Johnson has already displayed in restoring other gentlemen to the rights and privileges of citizenship, have had, as we all know, a happy effect at once upon the temper and spirit of the Southern people; and in the case under consideration the exercise of the pardoning power, in favor of Vance, would be a graceful compliment to the inauguration of Governor Worth.—Norfolk Virginian.

The Rent Extortioners.

Relieved from the incubus of war, it was natural that the hearts of many a stricken family would be soothed and consoled with the hope that all the blessings of peace would return, and make them to look forward to speedy happiness and prosperity. Mutual forbearance and mutual assistance were expected on all hands; but the rage for gain has become so deeply rooted in the breasts of those who, of all others, can best render assistance and afford to spare, that in many sad instances the return of peace is but a wretched mockery. To them there are no such things as "the blessings of peace." To toil and suffer, and want toil and want bread, because they cannot toil and suffer enough to find the wherewithal to pay the unprincipled demands of extortionate landlords, is their lot. War and its miseries fell heavily upon them, and "peace and its blessings" have failed to lift the weary weight from their long suffering hearts. Under any circumstances, we would read with horror such passages in the history of human misery as the following, which we clip from a New York paper:

"The coroner's inquest on the bodies of Rosa and Francis Gughay, who came to their deaths by suffocation caused by the fumes of coal gas from a stove, on Saturday night, was concluded Tuesday. It appears from the evidence offered at the inquest, that the premises No. 597 Grand street were being improved, and the apartments occupied by the Gughay family were required to complete such improvements. Edwin D. Hunter, the agent, wished the family to move, but they declined doing so. Finding persuasion of no avail, he ordered a mason to stop up their flue with a stone, at the same time warning them of the fact. The smoke and gas from the stove, being unable to pass up the chimney, accumulated in the room occupied by the deceased, causing their deaths. The jury brought in a verdict holding Hunter responsible for the deaths of these two persons, and he will be held to await the action of the Grand Jury."

But we need not go far from home to find themes to animate our sympathy or excite our indignation. Two days ago the spectacle was presented upon our streets of a poor woman, who had once been in comfortable circumstances, weeping bitterly, because she had been ordered to quit the house whose heartless landlord had imposed a tax upon her scanty earnings which she could not pay. She had spent the day in searching the city for a cheaper abode, but all, and few indeed in number, were occupied; and, disappointed and despairing, she gave way to the promptings of her distress, and stopping in the street cried like a child. It is now the "dead of winter;" the winds and storms of the past few days have intensified the bitter desolation of the season; not a bud, a flower, nor a green shrub lifts its head to whisper hope, or inspire with pleasant thoughts the hearts of the wretched and forlorn, and the human being who could execute so harsh a privilege, at such a time and upon such a cruel plea, deserves a curse upon his head which no mortal torture is adequate to fulfil.—Richmond Enquirer.

Patriotic Sentiments.

The following eloquent passage is from an address of Hon. William L. Goggin, of Bedford county, Virginia, to the Sabbath school children, on a public occasion in that county, on the 8th September last:

"But, young men and boys, it is not my province to enforce these sublime truths that are taught in the schools of philosophy or religious faith. I would, indeed, it were so. Yet I have ventured, for a moment, to speak as I was prompted by all the circumstances of time, place, and interest in the scene before me.—And still I am sure I may say to you, cherish habitual love for your country, and for your State also. Be not the enemy of that Union to which Virginia may soon be restored in all the length and breadth of her equal political and inalienable rights. The arbitrament of the sword, to which appeal was made, has decided that we must be in it and of it. We must go again into the broken circle, but still bordered with the stars and stripes, determined, ever hereafter, to bind them upon the ramparts of the Constitution, and in sunshine or in storm, in peace or in war, to hail them alone as the true emblems of the land of our fathers, as they shall ever be of the home of our children. The flag which proudly bore our eagles, in the face of the British lion, years and years ago, now that the trouble of mere sections has been adjusted, or should be, will yet protect us on the ocean and on the land—in the South as well as in the North. If left to enjoy those rights of property that yet remain, and to procure our own happiness, that proud ensign will continue to show itself, as the bond of Union, from the dome of the Capitol of a free, happy, and prosperous people—united in the ties of lasting, smiling, eternal peace—securing the enjoyment of life, liberty, and property at home—inspiring at the same time respect abroad among all the nations of the earth. The homes made desolate by the shocks of war; the scars on the bodies of veteran soldiers, returned now to witness the changes made by the sword; the bereavement of so many fond hearts; the mourning throughout the land for four long, weary years, would at one time seem to forbid it.—But now the broken circle must be united—enemies no longer can we nor should we be.—"The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every ancient battle-field and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone," from Bunker's Hill to Yorktown; from Monmouth and Trenton to Camden and King's Mountain—"all over this broad land, will yet swell with the chorus of the Union, when touched, as they surely will be, by the better angels of our natures."

The Other Side.

It has been an ungracious task with us to denounce and admonish the malcontent negro population. Now that that has been accomplished, we propose to make brief mention of a class of freedmen worthy of liberty and respect. We have in our midst a small minority of blacks whose gratitude, courtesy and thrift are creditable and exemplary. They are not oblivious of past favors or blind to present evils. They do not consider it a mortification to bow to white people. They have the sense to perceive their dependence upon their former masters and modestly yield the privilege of caste. Instead of hoarding up a store of curses, they are providing for the cold and privation of winter. Labor at the cotton shed is more congenial to them than festering in a pig sty. The clatter of dray wheels are more inspiring than moody croonings from their crazy preachers. They expect to earn a turkey for dinner at Christmas and not steal it. They are never out of work because they know where and how to procure it. Shooting irons are useless to them because the wild beast enters not into the soul of an industrious man.

The idle mind is the devil's laboratory. If it should happen that such as these come to want, a hundred hands would extend them charity.—We bespeak for this class of freedmen a happy destiny. They are doing their whole duty according to their light and opportunity. They can do much by advice to obviate the dreadful fate that already begins to overtake the lazy, impudent and deluded. We fear that any counsel may fail, but this, at least, is worth the experiment.—Aug. [Geo.] Constitutional.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

PRESBYTERIAN SABBATH SCHOOL.—It was our good fortune to be present at the Annual Celebration of the Presbyterian Sabbath School, on the evening of the 4th of January. The congregation of the Presbyterian Church prepared a handsome and substantial entertainment for the children of the Sabbath School, at the residence of Mrs. L. E. Heartt. Notwithstanding the severity of the season, there was a full and flattering attendance of children, teachers and well-wishers of the School. Judging from the happy faces and merry laughter, all enjoyed themselves; the children engaging in sports and innocent amusements, and the "children of larger growth" looking on or joining in with approving smiles. The table was literally loaded with good things, and the rooms were tastefully decorated with Christmas evergreens. The beauty and elegance of the lavish feast were only surpassed by the delight beaming on the many happy faces that surrounded it.

Nor were the enjoyments of the evening simply for the amusement of children, or the gratification of the appetite. The Rev. Mr. Atkinson, the Pastor, made a short and friendly address, mingling kindly counsel with hearty congratulation. Occasionally, too, the romp and laugh were subdued, and childish tremulous voices gladly joined in songs of praise, at such a time. On many a young heart, (and older, harder ones, too,) were stamped pleasant memories of the Anniversary of the 4th of January.

Complimentary Resolutions.

The following resolutions have been handed us for publication, adopted by the Baptist Church in this city, upon the resignation of Rev. Mr. Skinner. The resolutions very properly testify to the zeal and energy of Mr. S. in laboring for the promotion of the cause and the Church in this city. Under his care the Church has grown in numbers and influence, and by his efforts one of the most beautiful Church edifices in the State has been constructed:

WHEREAS, This Church has received with deep regret the resignation of our beloved Pastor, Rev. Thos. E. Skinner,

Resolved, That we reluctantly accept his resignation, believing that his interests demand the course he has pursued.

Resolved, That Brother Skinner's zeal and devotion, in promoting the interests of the cause and of this Church, are highly appreciated by us, and our heartfelt thanks are hereby tendered him for the very acceptable manner in which he has discharged his duties.

Resolved, That though we sadly sunder the ties which have for years bound us together, our hearts will ever yearn in affection towards Brother Skinner, and the welfare of himself and family is an object in which this Church will ever feel a lively interest.

Resolved, That Bro. Skinner be requested to fill our pulpit at his convenience, until the selection of his successor.

AUCTIONS.—Our streets are daily thronged with groups in front of the various Commission houses, in attendance upon the auction sales which are perfectly epidemic. One feature of these sales presents a melancholy feature to our minds. The large quantities of furniture offered indicate plainly, we fear, that too many of our people, unable to stand the high cost of living and the shamefully extortionate rates of house-rent, are preparing to leave and go somewhere else, in search of a better state of things.

We are under many obligations to Mr. W. E. Drummond, the accommodating messenger of the National Express Company, for late Northern papers.

THE MAIL IRREGULARITIES.—We receive frequent complaints of the irregular reception of our paper, and the other city dailies, from various points,—more particularly, of late, from Hillsboro and Chapel Hill. We would be glad to do something to arrest this evil, and have repeatedly called attention to it. Our mails are promptly made up, and in the Post-Office in time, where, we are sure, they are as promptly mailed. In some of the complaints we receive, it is alleged that the Agents do not take care to deliver them at the proper depots, but negligently carry them on; and in others that the Agents themselves are not on the trains. We notice a recent letter of instructions on the subject of their duties from the Postal Superintendent for this State, Mr. Vassal, and we expect to see improvement at once. If not, we shall allude to the subject again.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—We call public attention to Resumption of exercises at Lowell Academy, in Orange.

FAYETTEVILLE.—The election for Mayor and Commissioners of this town, last week, resulted in favor of the old board by a considerable majority.

The Governor of Colorado, in his message to the Legislature of that State, speaks in favor of a railroad to the City of Mexico, two thousand miles away, which he says would be easy of construction, and through a healthy and mostly fertile country. He seems to regard it as not at all a formidable undertaking.

A young man named Garrett was stabbed by young Dalton Yancey, son of the celebrated Wilham L. Yancey, a few nights since, at a dancing academy in Montgomery, Alabama. Garrett has since died. Yancey has delivered himself to the civil authorities. The difficulty was of a private nature.

General News.

Secretary Seward, having brought to the attention of the French government the decree of Maximilian, in October last, by which every person found armed in Mexico without his license should suffer death, that government has responded declaring that it is not responsible for Maximilian. He is as amenable to the United States as to any other government for a violation of such rights.

The case of Bradley Johnson, the Confederate Brigadier, for the confiscation of property, in consequence of damages committed by him in his Maryland raid, which was pending in the United States District Court at Baltimore, has been dismissed in consequence of certain Frederick banks, to which Gen. Johnson was indebted, having a mortgage on his property.

The Louisiana papers are filled with advertisements of plantations for sale, mostly by sheriffs.

Stanton and Holt both decline to deliver an eulogy on the life and character of Mr. Lincoln. The Committee find it difficult to procure a proper person.

Strong efforts are being made to induce General Grant to urge a large increase of the regular army.

A man, once Lord Mayor of London, is now a pauper in that city.

A bill will soon be introduced in Congress increasing the salaries of the Cabinet ministers to $10,000 per annum.

The wife of ex-Postmaster Scripps, of Chicago while receiving her friends at her residence on New Year's day, fell suddenly back in her chair, and instantly died without a struggle or a word.

General Sherman has announced himself a permanent resident of St. Louis, and his family occupies a house in the suburbs, presented to him by a few citizens.

Minister Clay writes from St. Petersburg that the Russian cattle plague is fearful—cattle dying by hundreds, and sheep by thousands.—Nothing is done to avert it, as the superstitious villagers think that would be a sin.

The Bishop of Lincoln, England, has come out against the pew-renting system. He thinks that the possession of pews "leavens devotion with selfishness."

Any one can now send to the public printer at Washington, and order a set of documents, and get them at cost. English Parliamentary documents have long been sold to the public at cost.

There were no services in Mobile on Thanksgiving day, for the reason that, sympathizing with the rector of the Episcopal Church, whose pulpit had been closed against him by military authority, the pastors of the other churches could not conscientiously enter their pulpits and give thanks.

The hair-dressers in New York have introduced the Zebra style, that is wearing different coloured hair in the locks of young ladies whose heads they manipulate.

Citizens of Philadelphia have subscribed four hundred thousand dollars towards the establishment of Southern steamship lines at that port.

Washington Territory has accepted the National currency—greenbacks. California won't come to it for some time yet.

The rice crop on the Georgia and Carolina coast will, this year, amount to little or nothing. The Savannah river, where formerly 800,000 bushels were raised, there are this year 10,000. On the Altamaha, where 600,000 were raised, this year 6,000, &c. Matters are much more unsettled on the rice plantations than in any other section of South Carolina or Georgia.

The Nashville Register & Advertiser hoists Gen. Grant's game in connection with the Presidency.

The reward offered for the recovery of Preston King's body has been withdrawn.

Garibaldi offered to nurse the cholera patients at Naples, but was refused permission to risk his life in that manner.

Resolutions in favor of negro suffrage have been indefinitely postponed in the Missouri House of Representatives.

Prentice thinks that such people as Wilson, Sumner and Thad. Stevens are flies in the Union cream pot.

The official majority of Governor Fairchild (Republican,) of Wisconsin, was 9,059. The majority against negro suffrage at the same time was 9,003.

The restrictions under which Episcopal clergymen have been labouring in Alabama have been formally withdrawn.

At the hotels in Madrid the price is twelve dollars per day.

A New York clergyman says there are not in that city more than two hundred thousand church-goers, of whom one-half are Roman Catholics.

We find published a statement of the amounts of prize money paid to officers of the navy.—The amounts are the aggregate of the sums paid during the whole war. Admiral Farragut received over fifty-five thousand dollars. Of the Rear Admirals, S. P. Lee and D. D. Porter received the largest amounts, the former receiving over ninety-nine and the latter receiving over ninety thousand dollars. The Mississippi service appears to have paid very handsomely. The destruction of the Albemarle netted each sailor engaged nearly two thousand dollars.

In Memphis one thousand special constables were appointed to guard against any negro insurrection during the holidays.

Memphis is spreading her wings immensely. The Appeal states that upwards of nine hundred houses are in process of erection in that city.

The Governor Elect.

Gov. Worth, upon assuming control of State affairs, has addressed to the people a letter of congratulation upon the re-establishment of the civil government in North Carolina. The article is manly and dignified, and inspires one with an appreciation of the ability and integrity of the man. Mr. Worth can present as clear a record as any citizen of the South, in justification of his political course, both before and during the war. He was a Union man, and a strong unyielding one; and yet he speaks of the high deeds and great worth of the people who so nobly and gallantly sustained the late war as long as there was life and hope. It is gratifying to feel that our chief magistrate understands the true sentiment of the people of the State, and that he extends to them the trust and confidence that they deserve. He expresses his belief that his fellow citizens of North Carolina are all, without exception, animated by an honest desire to aid in the restoration of the Union; and he does the justice to condemn as calumnies the rumors of disaffection, disloyalty, &c., so industriously circulated in injury to the interests of the State.—Fayetteville News.

If You are threatened with Pneumonia, read the following from Capt. W. P. Davis, of Petersburg, Virginia:

'Sympathy for the suffering prompts me to certify that my servant man was suffering in the last stage of Pneumonia throwing up matter and blood in large quantities; his case was considered hopeless, so much so, that there was no medical prescription used for his recovery; I regarded him as good as dead. Hearing of the great cures made by the SOUTHERN HEPATIC PILLS, I thought that I would try an experiment on him; without any hope of success however. I gave the Pills in large doses; in a short time, to my great surprise, there was a change for the better. I continued giving them to him until he became a perfectly sound man. He is now attending to his work with as much strength and vigor as he ever did. With his case, and what I have seen and heard of the good effect of these Pills, I do most earnestly recommend them as the best family medicine I have ever seen or used."

Desirable Farm for Sale.

THE PLANTATION SITUATED ABOUT TWO and a half miles from the village of Magnolia on the Wilmington and Weldon R. R., between that place and Kennansville, and known as "Barbacue," is offered for sale. The tract contains 360 acres, 100 of which are cleared and have been under cultivation, producing excellent Corn, Wheat, potatoes, &c. A portion of the land is also well adapted to the culture of cotton. An inexhaustible bed of Marl, a large spring of as good water as can be found in the State, and a never failing streak, running through the center of the cleared land, are among the attractions of the place.

The timbered portion of the land being nearest the Rail Road, and the entire place being easy of access to a first rate market, make it a highly desirable location for growing produce, raising stock and selling timber. Any one having the cash, can procure a bargain by applying immediately to

PALMER'S 1863

PATENT 10,000 IN USE.

1699 CHESTNUT ST.

PHILADELPHIA.

ASTOR PLACE, NEW YORK. | 19 GREEN ST, BOSTON.

ADDRESS THE INVENTOR,

B. FRANK. PALMER, LL.D. PRES'T A. A. LIMB, C.E.

These inventions stand approved as the "best" by the most eminent Scientific and Surgical Societies of the world, the inventor having been honored with the award of FIFTY GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS (or "First Prizes") including the Great Medals of the World's Exhibition in London and New York; also the most Honorary Report of the great Society of Surgeons of Paris, giving his Patents place above the ENGLISH AND FRENCH.

Dr. Palmer gives personal attention to the business of his profession, aided by men of the best qualifications and greatest experience. He is specially commissioned by the Government, and has the patronage of the prominent Officers of the Army and Navy. [From the Selma Daily Messenger.]

The Monroe Doctrine.

The historical "Monroe Doctrine" grew out of the administrative policy of Mr. Monroe when President, in reference to two subjects, each of which was of great importance to the United States. The first declaration of principle in our diplomatic history known as the Monroe doctrine originated in 1823, in the controversy between the United States, Great Britain and Russia, concerning the boundary of our northwestern territory. The European powers asserted that the unoccupied portions of this continent were subject to colonization, and that they might lawfully enter and claim the unoccupied territories, by actual settlement and continued occupancy. The position thus assumed by the trans-Atlantic Governments was controverted by Mr. Monroe, who asserted, as is shown in the official correspondence between John Q. Adams, his Secretary of State, and Mr. Middleton, our Minister at the Russian Court, and Mr. Rush, our Ambassador at the Court of St. James, that Mexico and the South American States were independent sovereignties, and had succeeded to the rights of Spain in their territories; that the United States claimed jurisdiction over the western territory to the Pacific Ocean; that the American continents were under the exclusive dominion of the powers between whom they had been partitioned, and that their territories were covered and shielded by the flag of some existing Government and were not open to colonization and settlement by any European power.

The second branch of the Monroe Doctrine originated in the position assumed by President Monroe in his message of 1823, concerning the declaration of the European powers combined in the Holy Alliance at the council of Verona in 1822. This assembly solemnly declared that the European governments had a right to assume a hostile attitude towards those nations where an overthrow of goverament might operate as an example. And that it was their determination to restore to their former allegiance the Spanish American States, which had recently declared their independence.—President Monroe regarded the declaration made at Verona as too deeply involving the interest of the United States for him to remain silent on this subject. In his message of 1823, he stated that the United States would consider "any attempt of the allied powers to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to their peace and safety."

These facts show that the Monroe Doctrine consisted of two distinct propositions, the first of which is, that the unoccupied territories of the western hemisphere were not subject to entry and occupancy under the right of colonization and settlement, so long asserted by Great Britain. The second proposition was that the avowed determination of the Holy Alliance in the subjugation of the Spanish American States to their former allegiance to the mother country, was dangerous to the peace and safety of the United States, and could not be allowed by them.

Are the Planets Habitable?

A few years ago, Dr. Whewell wrote a book to prove that the more distant planets of our system are uninhabitable. Applying the law of inverse squares to their distances from the sun, the diminution of temperature was found to be so great as to preclude the possibility of human life in the more remote members of the solar system. But—not to mention the hazardous task of attempting to prove a negative—the influence of an atmospheric envelope was overlooked in those calculations. The omission vitiates the whole argument. It is perfectly possible to find an atmosphere which would act the part of a barb to the solar rays, permitting their entrance toward the planet, but preventing their withdrawal. For example, Professor Tyndall tells us, a layer of air only two inches in thickness, and saturated with the vapor of sulphuric ether, would offer very little resistance to the passage of the solar rays, but would cut off fully thirty-five per cent. of the planetary radiation. It would require no inordinate thickening of the layer of vapor to double this absorption; and it is evident that, with a protecting envelope, which permits heat to enter, but prevents its escape, a comfortable temperature might be obtained on the surface of our planet most distant.

It is the presence of a protective atmosphere that renders the earth itself habitable, and in regions where it is so modified by the absence of aqueous vapor as to lose its protective power, man cannot live. One cause of the coldness of high mountain tops is their being lifted beyond the protection of the layer of moist air, which lies close to the earth. The withdrawal of sunshine from any region over which the atmosphere is dry, must be followed by quiet refrigeration. The moon would be rendered uninhabitable by beings like ourselves, through the operation of this single cause. With a radiation, uninterrupted by aqueous vapor, the differences between her monthly maxima and maxima of temperature must be enormous. The winters of Thibet are almost unendurable, from the same cause. Humboldt dwelt upon the "frigoric power" of the central portions of the Asiatic continent, and controverted the idea that it was to be explained by reference to their elevation; there being vast expanses of country, not much above the sea level, with an exceedingly low temperature. He did not seem to be aware of this one most important cause which contributes to the observed result. The absence of the sun at night causes powerful refrigeration when the air is dry. The removal, for a single summer night, of the aqueous vapor from the atmosphere which covers England, would be attended by the destruction of every plant which a freezing temperature could kill. In Sahara, where "the sol is fine and the wind is flame," the refrigeration at night is often painful to bear. Ice has been formed in this region at night. In Australia also, the diurnal range of temperature is very great, amounting commonly to between forty and fifty degrees. In short, it may be safely predicted that, wherever the air is dry, the daily thermometric range will be great. Great clearness as to light is perfectly compatible with great opacity as to heat. The atmosphere may be charged with aqueous vapor, while a deep blue sky is overhead; and on such occasions the terrestrial radiation would, notwithstanding the "clearness," be intercepted. It is consequently impossible for any one on earth to be sure that the distant planets are uninhabitable, and that the sun cannot be to them, as to us, a vivifier as well as a worker.—All the Year Round.

Farming in Brazil.

A Brazilian correspondent of the St. Louis Republican gives the following interesting account of clearing land in that empire:

I have learned some new things about farming, and believe that every country, in its peculiar customs, has something to instruct and be imitated, while we would improve on it. The process of clearing land, for instance, in Brazil is unique, and as it is the universal custom, I will describe it, as I have seen it thoroughly demonstrated under my own eye, and adopted by my own countrymen. The Brazilian forests, whether virgin timber or of the secondary growth, where squatters have once cleared up little patches and allowed them again to fall back into a state of nature, are full of vines and underbrush in most places. If this growth was like the oak and other hard brush of Missouri it would a formidable job to cut it down. But is all alike succulent weeds forced to an extraordinary size by the showers and the sun of a perpetual spring. Even cotton and the castor oil plant, and, to some extent, tobacco and red pepper, assume these proportions when undisturbed.

Now, into this forest a Brazilian will walk with his espada, a big knife, which is a cross between a sword and an Arkansas toothpick, and with all the motion of a fencing master, and with some not known in that science, but which he learns from his father and from practice, he hews every thing down not larger than his arm or his leg with the ease that a boy hacks down mullein stalks. The Brazilian slashes over his head and beneath his feet and on each side, and before him, and the whole tangled mass, is soon like even-mowed hay, covering the whole surface of the ground. He then passes over the same field with an ax, felling the larger timber, except perhaps some precious woods, and chopping all the branches level.

An expert hand will clear an acre a day, and drop it over, and thus continue the process as long as time or inclination suits, or still he has farm enough open for the small requirements of himself and family. He then waits two or three weeks till the whole mass is dry, when he takes some favorable day and wind, and fires it to the windward, and the flames soon cover over the whole surface, hissing and crackling like a western prairie on fire, consuming every weed and every ant and any other bichos or wild "varmints" that may be nestly there. The ground is then ready to receive his crop. He does not have to "log-roll" and labor on trunks and stumps which remain, for the ground needs no plowing, and the logs and stumps will all rot out in two or three years, manuring the soil in the mean time. He plants manioc, or beans, corn, or potatoes; and, of late years, has learned to plant coffee-trees on the same ground, thus supporting his family till the coffee-trees are large enough to bear and crowd out other vegetation.

Weeds will not come on a good burn for a year or two, thus giving him several crops without labor; and when the weeds do come on, if he is one of the roving sort, who do not have patience to wait for coffee, he will make another clearing as before, rather than keep the weeds down. This accounts for a great many abandoned places, which are not impoverished like the old fields of Virginia, but too rank with teeming weeds and soil for the "old fogies" of Brazil. They consider it easier work to clear the virgin forests than to cultivate the ground afterward—a hint which has reconciled me very much to the timbered country, which is so much easier cleared than anything that I have ever seen in the backwoods. As to tools, the espada is superior to anything ever invented; and an agricultural friend who brought out brush-hooks and other contrivances has thrown them all aside. He even found the Collins ax less serviceable than a peculiarly shaped native one—resembling a large, long handled tomahawk.

Influence of the Press.

In a sermon on Thanksgiving day, by the Rev. Mr. Leaken, rector of Trinity (Episcopal) Church, Baltimore, he said:

I shall reserve the remainder of my remarks to a subject which is rarely alluded to in the pulpit, but which is exercising a most important influence upon every State, city, village, county and family of our Union. I refer to the press—the newspaper—which from the smallest beginning, a luxury to the favored few, has become indispensable to millions, and whose power in forming public sentiment is unmeasurable.

To illustrate remotely the influence of this power, suppose a person of intelligence coming to your family every morning. He informs you of all that occurred in your city, in your country, in Europe, or distant Asia. He gathers the details of each interesting event; he attends each important meeting, and tells you what was said and done. In rain and tempest, in summer and winter, does this person pay you his daily visits; and not only brings you information, but gives you his opinion on each question that arises. In time he becomes one of you; he is identified with your family, and the character of yourself and those around have been moulded by this constant contact.

But the newspaper does more. It brings you an hundred different articles, besides advertisements. It can be read at leasure. Its information reaches children, and is read by servants. It forms the subject of conversation, and plies its ceaseless visits to your home, instructive, entertaining and interesting to all.—Have I over-estimated the force of this mighty engine? The French Encyclopœdists helped to produce the French revolution by means of ponderous books reaching the learned few.

What increased influence must the modern press exert, scattering the myriad thoughts daily among the millions! How noble the ministry of the editor! How vast his capacity for good or evil! He may enter the family daily and diffuse cheerfulness by his diversified thoughts. He may dry the tear of sorrow, animate the weary pilgrim to renewed exertions, arrest the young man in his downward career, and shield the humble and defenceless against the invasion of power. We have prayed for the President of the United States, and for all in authority—for our Senate and Representatives in Congress assembled. And shall we forget those who make our Presidents and determine our Representatives.

General SHERMAN began his speech before the Arkansas Legislature with this sentence:

GENTLEMEN: You are fully informed of the reason why I am here, which is by special invitation of your committee. I am a military man, and as such it is not expected or desired that I shall engage in any political discussion or give you any advice politically. We military men dislike to mingle in political movements. We are sworn to obey the constitution and laws, and in this country the laws govern.

Delighted to hear it.

On a recent trip of one of the Illinois river packets—a light draft one—the passengers were startled by the cry of a "man overboard!" The steamer was stopped, and preparations made to save him, when the sound of his voice was heard, exclaiming: "Go ahead with your old steamboat! I'll walk along behind you."
